

Alphabet/Alef Bet:

Hebrew and Semitic Words in the English Language

Monday mornings | November 3, 10, 17 | 9:30 a.m. on Zoom only

Although English and Hebrew are two totally distinct languages, there are a surprising number of words whose origins have Hebrew and Semitic roots. If you are a lover of words and where they come from, these sessions are for you. Presented by Len Hausman.

Modern Law for a Modern Rabbi

Thursday mornings | November 6, 13, 20 | 10 a.m. in the CBI library
In-person and on Zoom

Join Rabbi Isenberg to study recent Jewish legal decisions that have come out of the Conservative Movement. From whether lab-grown meat can be eaten with cheese to the permissibility of driving electric cars on Shabbat, we'll examine contemporary topics being discussed by our Movement's Committee of Jewish Law and Standards.

Additional dates: December 4, 11, 18 and January 8, 15, 29.
